

First Look Good Feel Better session for young adults at St George's

St George's hosted its first ever Look Good Feel Better pampering workshop for young adults earlier this month.

Seven young women who are currently being treated or have recently had cancer treatment, attended the workshop run by the Look Good Feel Better charity, in conjunction with the St George's Macmillan Information and Support Centre.

They took part in interactive tutorials and advice sessions on skincare and makeup. One of the attendees said after the workshop: "It was such a lovely event and was really nice to have met people in a similar situation close to my age."

Well done to Claire Fowler, Teenage Cancer Trust Clinical Nurse Specialist, and the Macmillan team for organising the workshop. Claire will be arranging another session at St George's early next year.

Like  (7) | Read By  (46)

If you have a story for eG You or eG St George's please email communications@stgeorges.nhs.uk with your 200 word article including a photo.

The weekly deadline for eG St George's is Monday at 5pm.
The weekly deadline for eG You is Thursday at 5pm.

Copyright © St George's University Hospitals 2018