

Hand Therapy Equipment to Purchase

This leaflet is for patients under the care of Hand Therapy at St George's Hospital and whose therapist has recommended purchasing items for specific, on-going hand therapy rehabilitation. This leaflet does not include instructions on how to use the equipment, only on purchasing it. Your therapist will give you specific instructions on how to use the equipment separately to this leaflet, if needed.

Your therapist has suggested that you purchase equipment to aid your recovery. These orders can be made over the telephone or internet and can be posted directly to your home address.

You will need to call or look online to find out the price of the products.

Mini scar massager

The Mini Massager is useful for scar massage and reducing scar adherence post-surgery or injury. It is also beneficial if your scar is sensitive.

Two models that patients have reported to be useful are:

- Homecraft or Roylan Scar Management Mini Massager - compact with interchangeable heads.
- Wahl Flex rechargeable scar massager - rechargeable but larger than the other product.

Therapeutic exercise putty

Putty can be used to promote hand muscle strengthening and increase endurance in your hand after an injury. Putty allows specific movements to be practised with appropriate resistance.

There are four resistances - your therapist will advise you on which resistance colour is needed for your hand.

57g is sufficient for strengthening of your hand. Please remember to avoid any contact with materials such as fabric or paper as the putty will stick. Always leave it in a container when not in use and store out of direct sunlight. It lasts longer if kept in the refrigerator.

Colour of putty suggested: _____

Theraband

Theraband can be used for upper limb strengthening and to increase endurance in your arm after an injury.

There are several resistances and your therapist will advise you on which resistance colour is needed for your arm.

1m to 1.5m is sufficient length for most exercises, unless otherwise specified by your therapist.

Please remember to inspect the band for any tears and to use it only as instructed by your therapist.

Colour of Theraband suggested: _____

Coban wrap

Coban wrap is used to decrease the swelling in your hand and / or finger. It can be re-used multiple times until it loses its stickiness or stretch. It comes in different widths, so ensure you order the one specified by your therapist (as circled below):

Width required: 2.5 cm / 5 cm or 1" / 3"

There are alternative product names for this: Pet Vet Wrap or Cohesive Bandage which can be found in high street shops such as Wilko.

Comfi-fast or Tubigrip

Comfi-fast and Tubigrip are tubular bandages that can be used under a splint for comfort or to protect dressings on your hand / arm. They can be washed and re-used.

Comfi-fast comes in a variety of colour codes, but most commonly blue is recommended for use on the hand/forearm.

Tubigrip comes in a variety of sizes, so ensure you order the size specified by your therapist (as circled below):

Size suggested:

Tubigrip: A / B / C / D / E Comfi-fast: Green / Blue / Yellow
