

Discharge from the Plastic Dressing Clinic

This leaflet explains how to look after your scar or wound now that you have been discharged from the care of the Plastic Dressing Clinic (PDC). These are general guidelines and we will discuss your individual circumstances with you. If you have any further questions, please speak to a doctor or nurse caring for you.

Looking after my wound

If your wound has not fully healed, the dressings are to continue with:

(Clinic nurse to tick as appropriate)

- Your GP practice nurse
- Community nurses
- Nearest “walk in” or “urgent care centre”
- By the patient or their relative as agreed in clinic.

If your sutures are dissolvable, they do not need to be removed. Most dissolvable stitches start to break down within one to two weeks, though it may take several months for them to disappear completely. Sometimes part of the stitch will be left on the outside of your skin. This should come away over time but, if it causes irritation, ask your local nurse to trim it for you.

If your sutures are not dissolvable, they will usually be removed 7-14 days after your surgery and we will tell you when you should get this done. You may wish to take some pain relief prior to your suture removal appointment as this can sometimes be uncomfortable.

When your wound is fully healed, the scar may appear red and raised. This is perfectly normal at this stage of recovery. Your scar will change over time and may take up to two years to fully mature.

For a softer, less noticeable scar, massage and moisturise the area using a simple moisturiser that you use on your skin. If moisturising is new to you, suitable products include E45 cream or Vaseline Intensive Care cream. Do this twice daily for at least a minute but up to five minutes each time if you can.

New scars are very sensitive to sunlight so you must keep the area out of the sun as direct sunlight may burn the area causing a more noticeable scar over time.

You are advised to protect your scar using Sun Protection Factor of at least 30 and UVA protection.

When can I get back to normal activities?

Returning to normal activities is very individual. The nurse will have discussed this with you before being discharged from the plastic dressing clinic.

What should I do if I have a problem?

If your wound has not completely healed, please check your wound regularly for signs of infection or wound deterioration, such as redness, swelling, increasing pain, pus, increasing warmth or if your wound opens or becomes larger.

If you notice any of these symptoms, contact your GP, PDC using the details below or go to St George's Emergency Department (ED or A&E).

Will I have a follow-up appointment?

Not all patients need a routine follow up and the nurse will confirm this with you.

If you are expecting to be seen and you have not been notified about your follow-up within one week of your discharge from the PDC, please call 020 8725 5855 or contact your consultant's secretary via 020 8672 1255 and ask for the secretary of the Consultant looking after you.
